For your reflection this first week of Lent:

The following reflection is based on the temptations Jesus experienced after he had spent time in the desert before beginning his ministry. Jesus, though sinless, was tempted like us because Jesus was fully human too. Remember, the key phrase before each temptation was "If you are...." How are we, like Jesus, tempted today?

"It's a familiar scene and story. Power and Temptation. Imagined and real. Power offered and accepted, or refused. The devil sitting on our shoulder offering to fulfill our every wish and dream, to help us accomplish whatever is on our 'Bucket List.' All the things we never even thought about, because we thought ourselves too small to accomplish them: not enough power or strength or imagination.

Are we servants or are we self-serving? We think 'I wouldn't buy into what the devil offers!' And yet we wonder 'Is really the devil who is doing the offering?'

- When someone has control over other people, we lose ourselves by wanting to have that kind of control.
- When someone has popularity, we lose ourselves by wanting to be the hero.
- When someone has the ability to perform marvelous deeds, we lose ourselves by wanting things beyond our reach.

This is temptation at its worst. It is a power over us, not given to us. But where does the power to change, come from during this Lent? Look carefully at what is being offered, and who is making the offer. The power from Christ, is better because that's the type of power that allows us to refuse all the devil has to offer.

To those who are tempted to turn stones into bread, we FAST, because Jesus gives us the power to be a Provider -- "For It is written, One does not live on bread alone."

For those who are tempted to have all the kingdoms of the world, we GIVE ALMS, because Jesus gives us the power to be a Possessor of service -- "for it is written You shall worship the Lord your God and him alone shall you serve."

For those who are tempted to stand on the Parapet of the Temple, simply to test God, WE PRAY, because Jesus gives us the power to Perform, serious about our prayer. "for it is written you shall not put the Lord your God to the test."

This is a time for us to see the power in him and use it for good, for when we do, we realize His same power is found in us."

(Reflection is from Fr. Joe McDonald's homily for the first week of Lent.)

IGNITING faith, knowledge, creativity and service
